

- (1) What is the title of the illustration? What year was it created?
  - a. The title of the illustration is The Death Struggle of General Custer created in July 19, 1876.

- (2) What is the illustration about?
  - a. The illustration shows the battle between the Native Americans and the U.S. Army.

- (3) Find Lieutenant Colonel George Armstrong Custer's location in the illustration. Why do you think Cary placed him there?
  - a. The image was about Custer so he was placed directly in the middle of the picture to be the center of attention.

- (4) After studying the illustration, what conclusions can you draw about the artist's point of view?
  - a. The artist, William M. Cary, showed how people thought how the whites were trying to civilize the savage Indians.

- (5) Do you think this illustration is a reliable source of information? Why or why not? Support your answer.
  - a. No, because Custer ended up losing the battle.